PLAN TO ARM U.S. MERCHANT SHIPS MEETS OPPOSITION

Administration Plans To Rush Bill, Brings Vigorous Protest

FORESEE ITS PASSAGE

Opposition Leaders Concede, However, Bill Will Pass By Goodly Majority

By William S. Neal
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Administration plans to rush the bill authorizing arming of merchant ships to final passage in the House next Friday, after two days of secret committee hearings, today brought vigorous protest from foes of the measure.

Despite protests, however, opposition leaders conceded that the bill will be passed by a substantial majority.

"Of course they want to railroad the bill through the House without adequate hearings or fair and full debate," said Rep. Tinkham (R.), Mass., slated to lead Republican opposition in the Foreign Affairs Committee.

"I don't think they will get away with their steam-roller program. I concede they have the votes to pass the bill, but we will demand an opportunity to show the country that the bill is another step toward war."

Chairman Bloom (D.), N. Y., of the Foreign Affairs Committee, defended the committee program, which calls for hearings on Monday and Tuesday, opening debate on Thursday and passage on Friday. He plans to call Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Admiral Emory Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, as witnesses.

"We cannot delay in this matter," said Bloom. "There would be nothing gained in holding public hearings. The Government witnesses, who must base their statements on secret information, cannot be questioned publicly."

Republican members of the Foreign Affairs Committee demanded at least five days' hearings, all open to the public. Bloom said Government witnesses probably would make public their formal statements, but cross-examination would be behind closed doors.

In a move to quell opposition, Bloom predicted that the ship arms bill will not be expanded, either in House or Senate, to include repeal of the Neutrality Act combat zone provision.

The statement apparently was intended to end reports that Administration forces, after getting a simple resolution arming ships passed in the House would broaden it in the Senate to permit American cargo ships to go straight to docks in Liverpool.

"There will be nothing more than arming of ships," said Bloom. "That would delay final action, and this arming of ships is a matter of speed. Even after the bill is passed it will take months to get them all armed."

Guns on American merchant ships will be manned by Navy crews if the bill is passed, it was reported. Chairman Vinson (D.), Ga., of the Naval Affairs committee, said he "assumed that Navy crews will be put on the ships, because the Navy would have the only trained men available."

Firemen Rescue Baby Locked In A Bathroom

A third ward child, a little boy of two years, locked in the bathroom of his home yesterday afternoon, was freed by firemen who were called by the child's mother when she discovered the predicament.

The rescued child is Edward Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Keller, 224 Mifflin street.

Edward had been placed in his crib in the large bathroom of the Keller home for his afternoon nap. A short time later when the baby's aunt, Miss Katherine Keller, went to the second floor, she found that the door of the bathroom had evidently blown shut and the bolt apparently slipped into place. No entrance could be gained.

As the mother and aunt of the child attempted to gain entrance, the baby awoke, and commenced crying.

Members of Bristol Consolidated Fire Company were called, and raising a ladder to the bathroom window, tore off the screen and gained entrance.

It was some time before the frightened child could be quieted.

TO STUDY NURSING

Five young women from Bucks County have enrolled as student nurses at Abington Memorial Hospital. The Bucks Countians who will form part of a class of 56 commencing studies this Fall, are: Mary Brown and Margaret Rathke, Bristol; Doris Herman and Margaret Worstall, Doylestown; and Anna McNabb, Newtown.

EARL OUT OF POLITICS AS LONG AS WAR CONTINUES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11—(INS)—George H. Earle, U. S. Minister to Bulgaria, today definitely quashed rumors that he would run for Governor of Pennsylvania in 1942 with the statement that he would not re-enter politics "so long as the war lasts."

In a cablegram from Sofia, the former Governor declared: "If by any chance my position should terminate, like so many other diplomatic posts in Europe, I shall join the Navy if they will have me." Earle left the political arena following his defeat for U. S. Senate in 1938.

The 51-year-old diplomat said his statement was prompted by requests from the State's voters that he become a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year. During the first World War, Earle won the Navy Cross for bravery in the submarine chaser service.

200 CHICKS CARED FOR BY FARMERS OF FUTURE

New Hope Lads Have Lost But Two of Brood; Is Project For the Class

PROFITS FOR A TOUR

NEW HOPE, Oct. 11—Two hundred chicks, which the New Hope-Solebury Chapter of Future Farmers of America, are caring for, are doing fine, it was reported at a meeting of the chapter this week. The session was held in the agriculture room of the high school.

The 200 chicks, which the chapter has as a group project, were reported to be doing fine with the loss of only two chicks to date.

Announcement was made that a mill has given enough feed to the chapter to feed 50 of these chicks for eight weeks. The profit realized from this project is to be used for an educational tour during the Summer.

"Farm of the Future," a sound picture, was shown by the advisor, Edward Bender. A local farmer asked the chapter to furnish labor to help pick his apple crop. The chapter thought much could be learned from this experience and voted favorably on taking over the picking, grading, packing and marketing of these apples on a nearby farm.

County Growers Pleased With Rainfall of Friday

The rain which ended the drought which for approximately 44 days brought great concern to Eastern Pennsylvania, especially to vegetable growers, will be of great help to the celery crop, according to growers of Bucks County and vicinity.

The celery crop would not have lasted much longer, according to growers in this section of the county, who with thousands of others were fighting with their backs to the wall.

"It sure is doing us good," said Stanley Q. Becker, who operates a large truck farm in Bensalem Township. "It means thousands of dollars to us."

"Of course, it came too late for some of our crops, but the late ones, spinach, cabbage, celery, will benefit. This rain will put the flavor right back into the Pennsylvania celery. Celery has to have moisture and coolness."

"Anyway, I'm looking for some more about Sunday."

William T. Greenwalt, Bucks county farm agent, said the seeded grasses, winter barley and late vegetables would be the principal beneficiaries.

"Slow, steady rain is what we need," he said. "More rain would help in the shortage of water on the farms, too. It would cut the fire hazard in the woods and fields."

Starkey Farms, a 1,600-acre tract near Morrisville, the rainfall was called a "Godsend," but it was too late to help the cabbage crop, it was said.

The top three inches of soil were moistened, it was said there, but that was hardly enough to be joyful about.

List Highest Scorers At Card Party in Edgely

EDGELY, Oct. 11—The Ladies' Auxiliary of Headley Manor Fire Company had 12 tables of pinochle players on Thursday evening at the fire station.

Highest scores were attained by: Mrs. E. H. Middleton, 818; Mrs. Eugene Taylor, 789; Mrs. Borchers, 783; Mrs. John Conyers, 771; Clayton Bintiff, 764. The chairman was Mrs. Marge Culbertson; aides, Mrs. George Bintiff, Jr., Mrs. Clayton Bintiff and Mrs. Mannherz.

TO ADDRESS GRANGE

LANGHORNE, Oct. 11—Carl Dawson, of the extension service department of Pennsylvania State College, will be the speaker at the meeting of Middletown Grange on Wednesday evening. His subject will be "Poultry," the address being given at 9:30, at an open session. Mr. Dawson will likewise answer questions. The regular meeting will commence at one o'clock.

Police Claim Boy Admits Media Murder

Media, Oct. 11—District Attorney McClenahan, Jr., today announced a written confession has been obtained from 14-year-old John Leeds, former reformatory inmate, in the slaying of Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, 83.

The boy has signed a statement, McClenahan said, verifying police suspicions that he single-handedly assaulted Mrs. Watson and her sister, Miss Belle Geary, 80, near their home Sept. 24. Mrs. Watson died of her injuries several days later.

Arrested in Columbus, Ohio, with an uncle, the Leeds boy was brought back to Pennsylvania by Delaware County detectives and State Police. Early yesterday McClenahan left for a meeting with the suspect at an undisclosed spot. The confession was obtained early today, he said in a telephone message to Media.

Leeds was placed in the nearby Glen Mills Reform school voluntarily by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Braden, who said he "needed discipline." He walked away from the school the day of the attack, however, and the next morning appeared at home. Mrs. Braden told police that the boy and her brother, Frank McNichol, left for Ohio the same day. The two were picked up in Columbus, having gotten jobs on a fruit farm near that city.

Russian Troops Fighting With Backs To Wall

MOSCOW, Oct. 13—Russian troops are fighting "with their backs to the wall" on the southern front, and by sheer weight of numbers the Nazis have crashed forward into menacing positions on the Moscow battlefields, the Russian army newspaper Red Star admitted today.

To face the constantly reinforced German hosts, the Soviets, too, sped masses of fresh and well-equipped troops to the fronts in a powerful bid to save Moscow and the gateways to the oil-rich Caucasus.

But Red Star conceded that on both major sectors the situation is "seriously" mixed.

In the Vyazma sector, 125 miles southwest of Moscow, said the army paper, "the enemy has thrown in new divisions and has achieved progress through local numerical superiority."

All German gains, the Russians insisted, were at the cost of an appalling number of slain Nazis.

In the Sea of Azov area, where the Germans are pushing towards Rostov on Don, Red Star went on: "A number of industrial centers of the region are threatened. Soviet aircraft are playing a large part in smashing enemy material and troops. But our forces are fighting with their backs to the wall."

"It is doing us good," said Stanley Q. Becker, who operates a large truck farm in Bensalem Township. "It means thousands of dollars to us."

"Of course, it came too late for some of our crops, but the late ones, spinach, cabbage, celery, will benefit. This rain will put the flavor right back into the Pennsylvania celery. Celery has to have moisture and coolness."

SELL-PERK TEACHERS TAKE FIRST-AID COURSE

Supervising Principal L. N. Snyder Leads the Group In Studies

15 ARE ON THE ROSTER

SELLERSVILLE, Oct. 11—As a defense measure, a first aid course is being followed by members of the faculty of Sellersville-Perkase high school.

L. N. Snyder, supervising principal, reports that a first aid course is being conducted here under the direction of Miss Sara Trumbower, school nurse, who had had special training in such work now being stressed especially by the Red Cross.

The others are members of the faculties of the grades in the two boroughs and the joint high school.

Mr. Snyder stated that surplus food made available for schools had been received from the federal government as an aid to underprivileged persons.

The S.P. athletic committee which meets monthly rendered a report this week to the school board through Robert Ambacher, a member, who stated that efforts will be made to reduce sports financial deficits this year, perhaps through some form of a benefit entertainment.

Following is the school nurses' report for September:

During the month of September (16) home visits were made to investigate pupils' absences and illness. One consultation was held at school regarding a pupil's physical condition. Ten pupils were excluded from school due to conditions which might have been transmissible to other students. Six pupils were accompanied home on account of illness.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

A school fair is planned for one day quality for the local post's scholarship and one evening by members of New offer of $350 to a Philadelphia school.

Hope Community Fair Association, the tentative date set is November 14th.

A number of public groups in that community have pledged support to the venture.

Three young high school graduates who enjoyed technical training in the field of industry on scholarships, are paying back the amount of the scholarship to Doylestown Post, No. 175, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Announcement was made that an Armistice Day banquet will be held November 11th at the post home.

Housing of the new pumper recently purchased by the Springfield Fire Company will take place here this afternoon at four o'clock, when a short program will be presented.

The main address will be given by county fire marshal Raymond L. Strunk, Quakertown, and Rev. Rox Griffin, Springton. The program will be presented as follows: Singing, "America;" prayer, Rev. Rox Griffin; remarks, Fred Dinnig, president of the fire company; addresses, Fire Marshal Strunk and Rev. Mr. Griffin, and singing, "The Star Spangled Banner."

The new apparatus was on display in the remodeled quarters on Thursday and Friday evenings, and also today.

Neighboring fire companies have been invited to attend the ceremonies this afternoon.

"Extra Eggs for Defense" is the title of an exhibit of the Sellersville-Perkase high school vocational agriculture department being displayed at the National Farm School as one of the features of a two-day harvest celebration to be held on the school's campus at Farm School, near Doylestown, Saturday and Sunday, October 18th and 19th.

Dr. W. W. Reitz, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in charge of Educational Relations for the Northeastern Region for Soil Conservation, and Miss Sarah W. Parker, Eastern Regional Librarian for U. S. D. A. are collaborating with the Librarian of the School, Mrs. Maul G. Maines, in bringing this highly informative and interesting exhibit to the National Farm School at this time. This collection, which will consist of posters, pamphlets, books on soils, and electrical color transparencies, will be on display in the Krauskopf Library. Extensive educational demonstrations and farm products exhibits by the students of the School, will also constitute an important feature of the Harvest Festival. All of the exhibits will be open to the public throughout Saturday and Sunday, October 18th and 19th.

On Sunday afternoon, October 19th, at 2:30, a number of prominent speakers will participate in the closing exercises which will be held in the Loucheim Auditorium on the campus. Details of the complete program will be announced within the next few days.

Noneganian Noted for Philanthropies; Outstanding Bucks Countian

PREST' COLLEGE BOARD

RIEGELSVILLE, Oct. 11—Dr. B. Frank Fackenthal, Jr., aged 90, was fatally hurt in an automobile accident, which occurred on Route 12, between Center Valley and Bethlehem, yesterday morning. Death is thought to have been instantaneous.

Dr. Fackenthal, one of Bucks County's most prominent residents, was outstanding for his philanthropies. He had been president of the board of trustees of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, since 1915. His benefactions to that institution are estimated at well over a million dollars.

The aged man and his chauffeur, John Geffert, 35, of this place, had left here early yesterday morning, and started out in the direction of Bethlehem. It is stated that a second machine, approaching from the opposite direction, skidded across the highway, the Fackenthal car striking the other machine broadside. The driver of the second car was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, as was also Geffert. The latter has a possible fracture of the nose. The two cars were greatly damaged.

Born in Doylestown on June 2, 1851, Dr. Fackenthal was a son of the late B. Frank Fackenthal, Sr., and Catherine Dennis Fackenthal.

449 YEARS AGO

Four hundred forty-nine years ago, Christopher Columbus' discovery related America to Europe. It was a discovery only so far as Europe was concerned. There was a not inconsiderable population in the Western Hemisphere when Columbus arrived.

The Mayas were leading peaceful, civilized lives. Their buildings, extensive ruins of which still survive, were of remarkable beauty architecturally. They had a written language. They raised cotton and made good cloth. They made beautiful ornaments of gold. To achieve so much they must have been a rather decent, orderly people.

Likewise the people of Peru were rich, prosperous and considerably enlightened when the Spaniards, as a result of Columbus' discovery, began to clean up on them. They had so much wealth that several centuries of European robbery were required for the conquerors to dispose of it.

This may seem a bad start for commemoration of Columbus Day. Columbus was unquestionably one of the great characters of history. His knowledge, pre-eminent in his time; his matchless courage in backing his theories and his devotion of a lifetime to objectives in which he believed, make him worthy of honor throughout all time.

But Columbus, with all his skill and wisdom, was badly worsted by the spirit which prevailed in Europe. Today it is fitting to magnify the name of Columbus. He carried through a magnificent enterprise and got a shabby deal at the hands of those who ought to have bestowed on him highest honors. He died in poverty and only centuries afterward was his true worth appreciated. America owes him a debt of gratitude.

INDIAN SUMMER

There is a period of poetic and mellow charm in the latter days of autumn, often called Indian summer. According to tradition, the indolent Indians of old times depended upon these days of late fall to complete the tardy harvesting of their crops.

The poet Longfellow thus described these days of late fall: "The wind is soft and low. It wafts to us the odor of forest leaves, that hang wiled on dripping branches. The birds have taken wing, and have left their roofless dwellings. Not the whistle of a robin, nor the twitter of an eavesdropping swallow, nor the call of one sweet, familiar voice. All are gone."

There is another side of Indian Summer. It is a period of great calm. The earth seems to lack the feverish activity of spring time, in which it is set for a great and mighty effort. There is now a kind of hush, of waiting for the storms of winter.

SENATE STENOGRAPHER by MAXWELL THAYER*CHAPTER SIXTEEN

The phone was ringing on the night stand.

Gale wondered what time it could be, who could be calling, and still thinking of the dream, she said "Hello."

"Gale? This is Tommy. What are you doing?"

"I was dreaming of you when the phone rang."

"Then it's as good as through."

"Tommy, what have you done?"

"Oh, I don't know, sometime after midnight. Come on, get dressed and I'll come get you. We'll take a little drive and get something to eat at a little country place I know. There's a lovely moon and I need to get that Smiley business out of my mind."

"Does this little country place sit up on a hill all by itself, and does it have a garden with flagstone walks and a little stone bench by a pool?"

"Why, why, yes, it does. Have you ever been there?"

Gale laughed. "I just came from there, but I don't mind going back while I'm fully awake."

"I don't get you, but I'll be around in a minute to pick you up."

Elaine was still sleeping, so Gale got out of bed as quietly as possible. Her weariness was gone. She even hummed to herself softly as she tied a ribbon about her hair, slipped off her pajamas and into comfortable slacks, took a sport coat from the hanger and tiptoed out of the room.

While she waited for Tommy, she thought again of the Smiley murders. Tommy had said there was a bright moon. But there was no bright moon for Senator Smiley nor for his faithless little wife and her lover . . . just a dim light glowing in some morgue for them. She shivered at her thoughts.

She wondered as she waited why she had ever accepted Tommy's invitation. She couldn't understand her sudden willingness to get up in the middle of the night and go for a ride with this assemblyman whom—well—she scarcely liked.

Undoubtedly it was due to her desire to flee from the torments of her mind, thoughts that blamed her for her part — however small — in the fatal Smiley affair. Gale felt she could never again read the word "smile" without thinking of the happiness that had been destroyed.

Young as she was, Gale knew that time might have settled in a far better way the troubles that had beset the Senator's household, troubles that the blast of a gun had not solved.

She speculated on the faithlessness of humans and their desire to sample the forbidden fruit.

The shock of the evening, the broken sleep, and her brooding increased her melancholy. When Tommy arrived, she told him, "I feel like the dickens."

"What you need," he said, "is fresh air." He took her arm and escorted her out of the door.

She did feel better once they were seated in his long roadster, roaring over the highway. The top was down and the moon shone bright and clear upon them; cool air felt good upon her fevered head.

Just at that moment, Murray opened his door and started out.

He had been thinking about it, too, and had been bothered but it was best that they both forget it. Nevertheless, both continued to think of it as they sped swiftly toward Gale's apartment.

When they reached it, she turned to face Tommy and wish him a goodnight. She wanted to go to bed, and she wanted to go right now.

Tommy was all for a goodnight, and he came close to her, reaching out his arms. Had she been in the mood, a kiss wouldn't have meant anything, but she wasn't and she pushed him away.

He just walked in, sized the situation up at a glance and began to help.

"Got any smelling salts?" she asked, and when Gale said she hadn't, Elaine went into the kitchen and returned with the pepper shaker. She shook some out in her hand, held it under Jeff's nose, and then jerked it away as he sneezed.

Jeff groaned and held his head. Elaine, who had returned to the kitchen with the pepper, sneezed, too. Gale couldn't help but grin over the ludicrous performance—a belated senator with senate stenographers waiting on him, and a fleeing assemblyman.

Then came a knock on the door that even a layman with a clear conscience would have known was John Law.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley) Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Give us at all times holy ideals. O God, and may our daily endeavor be commensurate with them. That which is dark within us, do Thou illumine with Thy Holy Spirit, and cleanse us from all unrighteousness. May we be truly penitent for our sins, and may we be strengthened with might in the inner man to do Thy blessed will. We ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Surrounded by what is described as the most competent cast ever assembled in her support, Baby Sandy stars in Universal's "Bachelor Daddy," billed to open today at the Grand Theatre.

With the three-year-old are Edward Everett Horton, Donald Woods, Raymond Walburn, Franklin Pangborn, Jed Prouty, Evelyn Ankers, Kathryn Adams, Bert Roach, George Meader and Hardie Albright.

Ida Lupino and John Garfield are starring in a new picture, "Out of the Fog," which opens Sunday at the Grand. In this Garfield plays a hard-boiled, unregenerate gangster but he wears good clothes and has pleasant manners. Ida Lupino, a good girl, who thinks she wants adventure, is fascinated by Garfield's ruthlessness and pseudo-sophistication.

LARGE LIVING ROOM

Buying a home is something more than mere purchase of shelter or the improvement of a vacant lot. It is a real investment and one that requires careful study of the design and layout of the home selected. The "Kenmore" is worthy of consideration. An exceptionally large, amply lighted living room with fireplace will prove a never-ending source of enjoyment. Both dining room and kitchen are large and have two entrances to the living room, providing an interesting design for living. Two large bedrooms and bath with four closets and two storage spaces, complete the second story. The front entrance matches the design of the living room porch with pleasing results. 17,950 cubic feet.

CONSHOHOCKEN TO OPPOSE FALLS XI ON ISLAND FIELD

Two Rival Teams Will Battle It Out Tomorrow At Morrisville

FALLS LOSES PLAYERS

Abute Will Play at One of The End Positions in This Game

With its first two contests tucked under its belt by overwhelming scores, the Falls Alumni team will face a stern foe tomorrow when the team lines up against the strong West Conshohocken eleven. The game will be played on Island Field, Morrisville.

In its two games played, Falls has amassed a total of 73 points and has scored in every quarter of both tilts. Leading the scoring attacks have been Stan Felkner and Al Doster. Doster is also gaining quite a reputation for booting extra points.

Lack of linemen is hindering the Orange and Black. Last week, due to the loss of Sammy Snipes to the U. S. Army, Coach Jimmy Doheny was forced to use Willie Abute at one of the end positions. Abute was the former quarterback.

As it now stands, Coach Doheny may have to make Abute a regular end as he is short of players for this position and Abute handled the position well against the Bordentown Cadets.

On the whole, Coach Doheny is more than satisfied with the showing of his independent protégés. They have exceeded his expectations, especially in their scoring power. And the opposition has been in the Falls' class and not any weaker team. The North Phils, whom Falls beat in the opening number, had a good club but lacked good field judgment and were in a hole from the start while the Bordentown team never had a chance.

Falls is drawing first blood in all its tilts and intends to do likewise against the Conshohocken aggregation which has played in this section on numerous occasions.

ST. ANN'S TO OPPOSE FAST BLUE BELLS TEAM

St. Ann's A. A. will face its strongest foes in years tomorrow afternoon at 73rd and Woodland avenue, Philadelphia, when it meets the fast Blue Bells team. The Blue Bells have a record of 67 straight victories and have not been beaten in six years.

The Blue Bells game was booked late last night when it appeared as if the Saints would be out of a game because the game originally booked with New York Ship was cancelled, owing to the condition of Fairview field in Camden where New York Ship plays its home games. For next Sunday, St. Ann's will play the Palmyra Red Devils.

The Blue Bells have a squad of 33 players and its coach usually substitutes team for team instead of player for player. The Bells have a light team which they use for speed, a medium weight team which is used for deceptive plays, while the third club is used when power plays are needed. This is the club that averages about 180 pounds.

St. Ann's has been strengthened this week by the addition of several backs, notably Bob Shaffer and Jimmy Scott, two colored boys from Jenkintown. The addition of these two enables the Saints to have seven backfield men.

Two ends joined the team this week, they being Steve Fiorito, former Bristol High end, and Eddie McIlvane, a parochial school player. Several other players practiced with the team but it is doubtful whether they will be able to play.

St. Ann's opened its season last week with a 6-0 victory over Glenside A. C.

SAGOLLA PLAYING FINAL SEASON FOR LOCK HAVEN

Ending his college gridiron career in great form, the 165-pound quarterback will be in the starting lineup when the Eagles encounter Slippery Rock today. It is Lock Haven's annual homecoming day.

As an elusive and hard-charging back, Sagolla has been tops. He is one of the most consistent ground-gainers on the Maroon squad.

His graduation will be a great loss to Coach Max Bossert, who has been more than pleased with Dom during the last three years.

EDGELY

Mr. and Mrs. T. Healey, of New York, week-ended at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed.

Mrs. Joseph Dewsnup and daughter Lois spent Wednesday in Lambertville, N. J., visiting relatives.

Mrs. Nellie Remine and Thomas Cockroft spent the week-end in Merchantville, N. J., visiting Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kausel.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holland have returned home after spending a week in the Pocono Mountains.

FALLSINGTON

Harry Bitting, of Philadelphia, and his mother, of Horsham; Harry Leedom, of Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert and family, of Doylestown, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seese.

PENNSYLVANIA HIGH SCHOOLS PLAN RELAY RUN ACROSS STATE STARTING OCTOBER 31

By Jack Gill

Schools that are situated in lower Bucks County may participate in the huge cross-state run that is scheduled to get underway in Pennsylvania on October 31st. At least, that was the viewpoint taken by the coaches of the local conference at their meeting last Monday evening at Langhorne high school. Charles Utz, league secretary, was instructed to contact Dr. R. B. Taylor, Norristown P. I. A. district officer, on the subject.

The proposed cross-state physical fitness run is a novel plan formulated by heads of the state athletic association, of which nearly all high schools are members. Starting October 31st at Erie and concluding November 11th at Independence Hall, it will be a dramatic spectacle illustrating the need of personal physical fitness for the entire population. Because boys will carry a baton made of aluminum, a significant metal in the present crisis, and because the run will be a co-operative relay affair, stressing the importance of unity, it has attracted the attention of leading civic bodies as well as governmental agencies.

In summation, the run will create an indelible impression upon the populace. State athletic authorities, believing that physical fitness is a prime requisite to national defense, forwarded their plans to John B. Kelly, who heads the national program, and received from him his whole-hearted approval. The run itself is an illustration of what unity of purpose can accomplish. It will aid in increasing morale and in developing better attitudes towards health.

Carl Olson, varsity track coach at Pitt, recently remarked that "All of our citizens should give this Cross-State run their unqualified approval. It is the patriotic duty of this nation to have in its citizenship the finest young people physically and mentally in the world. Such a country need not fear for its future. An event such as this is a great help in that direction."

A hollow baton or tube of aluminum will be given to the starting runner. Inside the baton will be the pledge addressed to the President of the United States: "I pledge allegiance to the United States of America, and promise to keep myself physically fit, because it is my first responsibility as a citizen." This pledge, suitably lettered on fine paper, will be toted across the state from Erie to Pittsburgh, to Harrisburg, to Philadelphia. At Independence Hall the baton will be handed to the President on Armistice Day or to one of his personal representatives.

Bucks County is not included on the itinerary of the runners. Quite naturally, the team will be limited to those
